TEFL Frequently Asked Questions

Is TEFL for me? What course should I take? We're here with expert advice so that you can feel confident taking those first steps to becoming TEFL qualified.

What is TEFL?

If you've ever thought about teaching English, it's likely you've heard the term TEFL. But do you know what it really means?

TEFL stands for Teaching English as a Foreign Language, and it's a certificate you need if you want to teach non-native speakers to understand and communicate in English.

With a TEFL certificate, you can teach students of all ages - from young learners to adult business language learners - anywhere in the world. It's recognized globally and is the key to kick-starting your English teaching career abroad, home or online.

Why do a TEFL Course?

There are 1.5 billion English-language learners worldwide, and this number is only expected to grow.

As more and more people are required to speak English around the world, the demand for EFL teachers is skyrocketing. That means now is the perfect time to launch your English teaching career.

Here at Premier TEFL, we strongly believe the best reason to take a TEFL course is that your qualification is your passport to travel the world! Whether you aspire to teach online, at language schools or simply to travel the world as a freelance teacher, obtaining a TEFL certificate is the answer to liberating your life and career.

Is TEFL for you?

If you're passionate about education, flexible working and travel, a TEFL certification is for you.

A TEFL certification not only lets you live abroad, but it's also the gateway to making money while traveling the world. And, if traveling isn't part of your plan, TEFL is the chance to work from home and teach English online or at language schools.

Whether you're embarking on your first career or looking for an exciting career change, a TEFL certificate is the perfect opportunity to live the life you've always wanted.

Who can teach English as a Foreign Language?

If you are a native or fluent English speaker, you can teach English overseas and online. Don't have a teaching background? That's no problem. If you have your TEFL certification, you can teach English as a foreign language. Teaching English is perfect for you if you:

- Are passionate about teaching and helping others to learn
- Have a good knowledge of the English language including sentence structure, vocabulary and grammar
- Are open and willing to adapt to other cultures and languages
- Want to travel and see the world
- Are looking for an exciting and flexible career path
- Can be an ambassador for your home country
- Are outgoing and confident speaking in front of a class or ready to build your classroom confidence

How do I become TEFL Certified?

TEFL courses are either fully online or a combined in-class and online experience. We know at first it can be overwhelming choosing the right provider but remember to always go for globally accredited certification. It's also worth double checking companies reviews to make sure customers are satisfied with their training.

To be a TEFL teacher you must take an accredited TEFL course, with a minimum requirement of 120 hours. Getting a TEFL certification from a recognized, trusted provider is essential when it comes to receiving high-quality training and finding a job. That's where we come in. Premier TEFL is recognized worldwide and offers a range of accredited and government-regulated TEFL courses to prepare you for the different types of international teaching that's on offer.

Classroom Vs Online Teaching

What are the key differences when considering tutoring English in-person or online? Let's look at the benefits of each style of teaching.

Whether you want to TEFL in a classroom or online, the choice is yours with a Premier TEFL certification. Although all options let you work from anywhere in the world, there are some differences to consider when choosing the best course.

Preparing Lessons

Preparing for lessons comes with the territory whether you teach online or in a classroom. When you teach a class in person, you are responsible for creating the entire lesson plan. However, if you are teaching online, your employer will often prepare the lesson, including presentation slides and exercises. Of course, it's important to review the slides before the online lesson, but the level of prep is usually much less than teaching in a classroom.

Working Hours

The hours you could be expected to work play an important part in your decision. If you work in a classroom, your working days will be determined by the school's term hours (typically Monday to Friday between 7.30 am and 3.30 pm). Or, in the case of private language schools, classroom hours could be all year round and include evenings. As an online teacher, you will have more flexibility over your schedule, but you'll have to factor in time zones if you teach students in a different country.

Class Size

Teaching English in a classroom means you could be teaching class sizes of 12 students up to 50, whereas online classes are usually one-on-one or with a handful of students. In both cases, classroom sizes will depend on the school and what country you are teaching in. But it's important to think about what class size you'd prefer and feel most comfortable teaching in when deciding whether to teach online or in class.

Interaction with Students

A huge benefit of teaching English in a classroom is that you get to interact more closely with your students. As you will see them face-to-face regularly, it's much easier to build a rapport with your students. You can also connect with students outside of the classroom rather than being limited to the time in your lesson. On the other hand, there are many techniques that you can use to get to know your students when teaching them online.

TEFL Prospects

Whether you teach English in a classroom or online, overseas or at home, TEFL is a hugely rewarding career. It allows you to make a big difference to the lives of people all around the world, while living a life you love.

Our team is made up of qualified TEFL instructors, experienced TEFL teachers with real TEFL experience and passionate educators. We've helped many thousands of aspiring teachers find employment through our network of global connections and sister website GoCambio Recruitment.

Combine all this and you'll be in the best possible position to live your best TEFL life. With a TEFL certification you can work from your kitchen table or anywhere in the world. From exotic faraway lands to somewhere a bit closer to home, the choice is yours when it comes to teaching English.
